Scenario 1

Samir is on his favourite social media site where he notices that a boy from his class, Jake, has shared one of his drawings. Jake makes a comment saying that he's 'really happy with it' because 'it took him a whole month to complete.' Samir decides to make a comment below Jake's drawing and says 'stop bragging Jake, no one cares about your silly picture!'

How could Samir have shown empathy?

Scenario 2

Billy and his friend Joel were walking to school one morning. Billy was a lot quieter than usual so Joel asked him if anything was wrong. 'I've been receiving some horrible messages online' said Billy. 'They've upset me and I don't know how to make them stop.' 'Oh that's nothing to worry about' said Joel. 'Bullying that happens in the real world is the only sort of bullying that is hurtful!'

How could Joel have shown empathy?

Scenario 3

Natalie is on social media and notices that lots of silly pictures and comments have suddenly appeared on her classmate Ella's profile. Natalie thinks that her password must have been shared or stolen because Ella would never usually do anything like that. Natalie finds the whole thing really funny and, as much as she tries, just can't help herself. She 'likes' the pictures and makes a comment saying 'well done to the genius who did this!'

How could Natalie have shown empathy?
